DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

- I. Applicant's election with traverse of the claims of group I in Paper No. 6 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that search and examination of group II claims would not unduly burden the Examiner. This is not found persuasive because the claims of group II would require a search outside of Examiner's field of expertise.
- A. The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.
- B. This application contains claim 35 drawn to an invention nonelected with traverse in Paper No. 6. A complete reply to the final rejection must include cancelation of nonelected claims or other appropriate action (37 CFR 1.144) See MPEP § 821.01.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

II. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
- A. Claims 1-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hubler, US No. 3,666,276. Hubler discloses a sealing device comprising a shaft seal (5a) having a sealing portion and a support portion (FIG. 2). The sealing portion is constructed and arranged to sealingly engage with a shaft and allow the shaft to be at least one of slidingly and rotationally moved relative to the sealing portion (FIG. 2).

There is a seal mount (22) having a first end (12), a second end (13) and a flexible member (6a) between the first (12) and second ends (13) that enable movement of the first end relative to the second end in at least one degree of freedom (via flexible connecting bellows portion). The first end (12) is sealingly engageable to at least a portion of the support portion (3a) of the shaft seal (5a). The second end (13) is sealingly engageable to an engagement surface (2a) about a port into a process camber (FIG. 2).

- B. The flexible member defines a transition space in a first zone P1, which is in fluid communication with the vacuum process chamber (defined by the interior of 2a). The port comprises a central axis and the flexible member (6a) allows movement of the shaft (1a) seal in at least two degrees of freedom relative to the central axis of the port (FIG. 2). The port has a port size (13) substantially larger than the shaft size (outer diameter of 1a), which extends through the port (FIG. 2). The shaft may be angularly or laterally off set with respect to a central axis of the seal device (via its flexible bellows. The sealing portion of the shaft seal sealingly engages with a cylindrical-shaped portion of the shaft. The support portion of the shaft (1a) is substantially rigid and constructed of metal or PTFE (Col. 2, line 31). The flexible member may be rubber or an elastomer.

2). There is a first retaining ring constructed and arranged to selaingly engage a first end of the flexible member to the shaft. An o-ring is positioned between the first retaining ring and the shaft seal. There is a second retaining ring (13) constructed and arranged to selaingly engage a second end of the flexible member to an engagement surface of the process chamber (interior of 2a). There is a second o-ring positioned between the second retaining ring (13) and the engagement surface (2a). The flexible member (6a) includes a flexible collar (portion connecting the bellows and 13). The device is fluidly connectable to a vacuum source (Col. 4, line 41).

Response to Arguments

- III. Applicant's arguments filed 20 January 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that Hublers device is insufficient for maintaining a vacuum seal for a process chamber. Examiner disagrees, this assertion is directly contradicted by Hubler, Col. 4, line 41, which specifically fluid tightness of the assembly can be determined by creating a vacuum in chamber P1.
- IV. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
